

Re-membering Ourselves and Remembering June 2006

And so on June 11, 2006, I found myself activating, on World Activation Day, yet another of the rampant coincidences that form the breadcrumbs on my path.

World Invocation Day is a world day of prayer when men and women of every spiritual path join in a universal appeal to divinity and use the Great Invocation <http://www.lucistrust.org/invocation/index.shtml>> . Together they focus the invocative demand of humanity for the light, the love and the spiritual direction needed to build a world of justice, unity and peace.

And so as I joined my consciousness to this world movement I felt myself lifted, just enough, to reach for a new level of courage. I could feel my light amp up, and my body relax. I re-membered that I am a powerful particle in a huge wave divinely guided. Remembered in the cells of my body, the prions of my spirit. The adamantine particles of my will.

Then my precious husband and I were taken to dinner by my angel sister, and we spoke of nothing ordinary as we dined on food brilliantly prepared with love in our sacred valley in the mountains above Santa Barbara. We re-membered ourselves as we laughed together at our Earth stories and origin memories. The weave of love between us unzipped as we celebrated being in school together on Earth. Our conversation danced so delightfully that we continued at home until late in the evening, telling new levels of truth about who we are, why we came here, what we've learned and why it matters. And forged a deeper alliance laced with planned action. I felt and feel so alive, so on course, so hopeful. I graduated from something into something new that day. I am grateful. I feel safe. I remember...

When I feel grateful, I know I have learned (or remembered) something new. I pass through the resistance, avoidance, denial, anger and fear into acceptance and great fullness. I receive my new module of truth and integrate it into action. I am grateful to be an Angel with Attitude, with true soul companions I can show myself completely to. In reconnecting to our soul family, our internal reconnections activate. It is the love that catalyzes soul memory. It is the soul memory that funds divinely inspired action.

I find my soul family in the most unexpected places. In co-workers in a corporation, wait staff at local restaurants, handymen repairing my plumbing, companion animals, birth family and in-laws, news anchors I will likely never meet in the flesh, as well as my peers, the teachers, healers, musicians, and authors of the so called New Age movement. I am on a cosmic scavenger hunt; I am alert for clues.

Today the clue was to allow joy to fuel a new module of beingness, re-member myself, re-connect with my soul family, and remember...

We are experienced explorers recruited for a grand adventure in an exclusive school. We each carry a portion of the tools and rations to ensure triumph. As we find one another we activate our links and begin re-assembling the system we brought and the wave we are. We tune to the love we embody, allowing it to purify our enschooled bodies, emotions, minds and spirits. The courage we are ignites. We alchemize our curriculum from the inside.

I am my Loving Power and

I trust God in Me.
