

Greetings from Home

Dear ones, you are here on a very magical planet. You are here at a special time and you stood in line to be here at exactly this moment in order to make a difference. You asked to be put in some very difficult situations so that you could go through the processes you needed to gather the information and gain your credentials as a healer or a teacher or whatever role you were planning to play. Now those sacred contracts are being enacted. Some have begun and some are yet to unfold, but you are on the path.

Both Sides of the Brain will be Rewired as One

There is the rewiring of mankind which is beginning today. The two halves of the brain that had to be separate to give you the illusion of the field of duality are starting to join together. Instead of having small, synaptic pathways that move back and forth between the halves, as you evolve as humans, the two halves will become one. The illusion and the veil actually exist between the two halves of your brain, for the left side is the marker of time. It gives you the illusion of living in a field of duality and gives you the illusion of linear time, which gives you a path to follow. It gives a spirit a game to play as a human. Your right brain is the all-creative brain but does not have any concept of time. It has no concept of boxes that things fit into. That is the other side of the brain. Those two are beginning to grow stronger with this rewiring. It is not simply a case of new or improved synaptic pathways between the two; it will be a blending of the two as the human animal evolves to contain a higher vibration of spirit...for it is not the human that is evolving. It is the spirit that is evolving, causing the human shell, the bubble of biology, to change to accommodate it. That is happening now, with great anticipation from our side of the veil.

Rush to Be the First

Yes, there will be turmoil. There is always turmoil when humans are confronted with change. That is why you are here. You can be called into action with the knowledge that can bring calm to a changing planet. We also wish to mention that we are speaking as if today is a line in the sand. There are many of you who have been going through this rewiring process for years, especially those of you who call yourselves Lightworkers. Some of you pride yourself on being ahead of the game. There is almost a fear of spiritual competition with some of you because you want to be there so early. It is very frustrating for you to be there and not have anyone around you who understands you. We tell you, many of you have been going through this over the last 5 years. What is going to happen when you get to the other side? That is what you want to know: what does the destination look like, especially since the picture we are painting of the journey is not always so pretty? We tell you that everything is the journey. There is no destination.

Rewiring Interruptus

Let us explain this as well. There are times when the physical body needs grounding. It needs constant refreshing of physical attributes for the body only exists in the physical world. It needs water. It needs food. It needs sunlight. It needs hugs. It needs intimacy, sex, nurturing and the touch of others. It needs grounding to keep you in the physical confines of Earth. Sometimes if a soul is not properly grounded or not grounded enough to go through the rewiring process, the process can overload the body and can be interrupted. The interruption of this process at critical stages can cause a cycle to begin where the hypothalamus gland begins to overproduce. The ungrounded physical body is then set into a cycle that causes energy illnesses such as the ones that you have labeled Fibromyalgia, Chronic Fatigue Syndrome, Myalgic Encephalomyelitis and other similar energy disorders. This has been more common among people who tend to lead the way vibrationally as they often live closer to the edge vibrationally than do most people. Incidences of these energy disorders are likely to increase as time goes forward. Your first experiences with multidimensionality can cause you to lose grounding and get stuck in between energetic dimensions and set these cycles into motion. Many times there is a reason why the higher self chose to take on this condition. In that event one cannot move forward into healing until they have fully received the gift of the illness. Then with proper grounding and energetic techniques you can help people to ground and start the rewiring process again.

Good Grounding

There are grounding techniques that many of you will experience, for it is important to honor the body. If you spend all your thoughts waiting to rid yourself of the body in an ascension process, then it is quite common for the body to energetically check out during a rewire. Do not think that you are going to be growing wings and sprouting into angels right away. The body serves a wonderful purpose and as this rewiring process happens, you are going to see more of the capabilities of what your physical body can do with the spirit. With the spirit at the helm of the physical bubble of biology, it is also somewhat limited by that physical bubble of biology. You have created the veil so thick, you do not even re-member that you are spirits. It is absolutely amazing to us to look at you, bumping into each other. Your greatest desire was to come in here and be confused. You have been very successful, yet we tell you, that is about to change. The entire process is starting to shift for you now as this rewiring begins for all.

Yes, you who are watching, or listening to or reading this, ask, "What is this going to do for me today?" Find your role, dear ones, for many of you have activated a Sacred Contract that you know nothing about. You can feel it pulling but you do not know where it goes. That is normal. That is the normal state of humanity at this point. Very few people know what their Sacred Contract is, but the pull, that little bit of knowing, is all you need at this moment, for it will lead you well if you do not think it to death. Take it out of there and move it into the feeling instead of the thinking. Blend the two together, for you are not going to move completely into the right brain and exist over there. You are going to be blending the two together where you can quantify god. Imagine it this way: god is the infinite and exists in the right part of your brain, for you are god, and the left part of the brain is the part that pretends to be a human, the part that quantifies everything and figures everything out by putting it in neat little boxes to give to your children so they can give it to their children, and so forth. You have done such a good job that you actually believe you are human. That is so funny on our side of the veil. You teach everyone that you are human, when in fact you are spirits playing a game. You have forgotten the veil. That is a testament of your own creative abilities. You have done very well, dear ones.
